Central Sulawesi Earthquake and Tsunami Response

April 30 Update

The earthquake and resulting tsunamis, landslides and soil liquefaction in Central Sulawesi killed 5,356 people; another 667 are still missing.

The government-led response, complemented and augmented by non-government and private support, continues to address humanitarian needs while transitioning to recovery and reconstruction.

Recovery planning is underway with results from a variety of assessments being discussed to inform a government Master Plan for Reconstruction.

Water, Sanitation & Hygiene

Water Supply

- CWS distributes 236,100 liters of water daily in 52 locations, with 16 tankers reaching about 11,300 people in over 2,800 households. Each person receives at least 15 liters of water a day in line with Sphere standards. CWS collects water from the municipal water works, which treats the water at its plant. We truck the water to each of the distribution points, where it is further treated with chlorine. We share information about the importance of also boiling the water during distributions.
- Water distribution was somewhat lower in April than in March, when CWS was distributing about 345,000 liters of water in 76 locations. As the response moves into the recovery phase, water systems are being restored. At the same time, some displaced families have returned to their villages and homes. As a result, there is reduced need for water trucking. CWS staff are closely monitoring this development with a view to reducing water trucking again in another month or two.

Sanitation and Hygiene

- CWS-supported community health volunteers have delivered hygiene and sanitation information and education in three villages. In all, 202 women and 45 men joined the info-sessions.
- Early in the emergency, CWS distributed hygiene items (diapers, sanitary napkins) and/or hygiene kits to 431 households and collapsible jerry cans from UNHCR to 4,373 households in Sigi and Donggala districts.
- In March CWS built four four-stall public latrines in two camps in Donggala district. These add to the 21 four-stall public latrines in already built, bringing the total to 25 latrines.

Shelter & Household Items

CWS has received and distributed:

- RECENT. 4,373 jerry cans; 2,760 mosquito nets; 5,671 solar lamps; 6,000 sleeping mats, 195 family tents in Sigi and Donggala districts.
- EARLIER IN THE RESPONSE. 2,100 tarps from USAID in Sigi district; 1,911 blankets; 1,148 sleeping mats; 858 additional tarps in Sigi and Donggala districts.

CWS staff have identified 200 households in Jono, Sidera, Jono Oge, Karawana and Puroo villages in Sigi as well as 100 households in Ombo and Lende Tovea villages in Donggala district in need of transitional shelter, or T-shelter.

Three T-shelter prototypes have been built in Sigi district, and two more have been built in Donggala district. Community members and local builders joined hands-on T-shelter construction trainings in five villages in Sigi district. So far, 200 t-shelters have been constructed in five villages (out of 300 total that will be constructed).
