

Ecumenical Declaration: Expand Welcome

Updated March 2021

Together with our joint membership of 37 Member Communion, we stand united in our resolve to love our neighbor as ourselves. We are committed to act justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with our God in fellowship with the vulnerable: the outcast, the widow, the orphan, the immigrant, and all who are in need in our society.

We have, as faith partners, worked together through CWS for more than 75 years to welcome refugees into our communities. Our congregations have been a bedrock of support for this demonstration of solidarity and compassion to people around the world. We have seen how refugees, asylum seekers, and immigrants make our communities more vibrant, prosperous, and secure. We hereby pledge to do everything in our power to restore and maintain hospitality and welcome to all people — regardless of where they are from, how they pray, or what language they speak. We commit to restoring American leadership to address the global displacement crisis.

We are in a critical moment that calls us to hold our leaders accountable to the moral responsibility of turning the principles of mercy and justice into concrete action. The world faces an unprecedented migration crisis. War, conflict, and persecution have forced millions to leave their homes, creating more refugees than at any other time in history. There are 79.5 million displaced persons worldwide, including more than 29 million refugees, over half of whom are children. The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) reports that global resettlement needs have doubled in recent years reaching over 1.44 million refugees in 2020.

We grieve for the refugees who have faced dismal chances of finding safety and have been forgotten in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as for refugee families still waiting to be reunited. The previous administration's attempt to dismantle refugee resettlement and asylum commitments has undermined the capacity, expertise and opportunity of our communities of faith to exercise our spiritual practice of welcoming the stranger.

We are committed, however, to being a beacon of hope in this new era, welcoming and accompanying immigrants, asylum seekers and refugees with renewed vigor. We know that our collective response needs to be as powerful and intentional as the deep root causes of today's migration. It is imperative that we understand the domestic immigration situation as a manifestation of the larger global migration phenomena. We further acknowledge that we must be vigilant to the political forces that for good or bad shape the immigration policies of this country.

The previous administration dismantled the resettlement of refugees in the U.S. by more than 80%, setting consecutively historic-low refugee admissions goals, including an FY 2021 admissions goal of only 15,000. At the same time, the previous administration illegally turned away asylum seekers and infamously separated parents and children seeking safety at our borders.

The Biden administration issued an executive order in February 2021, signaling the administration's promise to restore and rebuild the life-saving program and committing to raising the refugee admissions goal to 125,000 for Fiscal Year 2022 with a revised refugee admissions goal of 62,500 for FY 2021 -- an important step toward returning the resettlement program to historic norms. While we are encouraged by the administration's recent consultations with Congress regarding this proposal, we are deeply concerned that the FY21 Presidential Determination has not yet been signed and urge the President to immediately sign a new, revised FY21 PD. We members of the faith community pledge to hold the administration accountable to honor its commitment to protect refugee families, and reverse the damage done to the refugee resettlement program under the previous administration.

The Biden administration signed additional executive orders to begin reversing the anti-asylum, anti-immigrant policies by the previous administration -- claiming bold leadership in welcoming immigrant families and asylum seekers by establishing a family reunification task force, ending the immoral and illegal Migrant Protection Protocols (MPP) program, ending the family-immigration ban, and reviewing the discriminatory public charge rule.

However, the Biden administration must go further to reverse all anti-asylum policies, including by terminating Title 42 expulsions, urgently suspending deportation flights, especially for Black immigrants who may have been denied a full and fair opportunity to seek asylum in the United States and would experience extreme hardship if returned, and ending immigrant detention. The moral way forward is for the Biden administration to fully restore U.S. asylum policies by allowing all people to present themselves for asylum with safely-implemented COVID-19 practices and testing where necessary.

We claim as sacred truth the words of Jesus in Matthew 25:35, "For I was a stranger and you welcomed me." We recognize the face of Christ in the migrant and the refugee. In that spirit, we hereby:

1. Request a meeting with President Biden and relevant government officials to urge our government leaders to immediately revise the FY 2021 refugee admissions goal, fulfill a minimum annual commitment for 125,000 refugee admissions in FY 2022, and invest in rebuilding the overseas and domestic infrastructure that helps our communities assist refugees in the U.S. and abroad. We implore the administration to lead by example in fulfilling these commitments.
2. Call on Members of Congress to do everything in their power to hold the administration accountable to fulfill its promise to end all anti-refugee, anti-asylum, anti-immigrant policies and restore and strengthen refugee and asylum protections. Urge Members of Congress to pass inclusive immigration reforms that push back against criminalization of immigrants, create a pathway to citizenship for all undocumented people, and support community-based alternatives to detention.
3. Encourage our communions to organize and facilitate meetings with local, state, and national policy makers to educate them about our solidarity with refugees, asylum seekers, and immigrants and urge them to support policies that affirm a welcome to the sojourner.
4. Commit to resourcing, supporting, and standing with our congregations who organize public, prayerful demonstrations of welcome for refugees, asylum seekers, and immigrants.
5. Commit to supporting refugees who have already arrived in the United States, those who will arrive in the months to come, and to the important work of rebuilding the capacity of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program.
6. Commit to work for the dedication of one Sunday in 2021 in the life of our communions to engage all of our congregations in honoring refugees, asylum seekers, and immigrants' journeys, reminding our congregations of the biblical call to welcome refugees and immigrants, and inviting our congregation members to take public action in support of refugees, asylum seekers and other immigrants.

Through this Ecumenical Declaration, we pledge to Expand Welcome by engaging our congregations and networks in safeguarding refugee protection in the United States and beyond, and by being a bold, prophetic voice in solidarity with immigrants and refugees.

It is our resolve as an ecumenical body to share information about this Ecumenical Declaration to Expand Welcome, its goals, and reason for being, through our mainline and social media outlets. We pledge to invite all our constituents and all other people of faith to join us in this effort, "to loose the bonds of injustice, to undo the thongs of the yoke, to let the oppressed go free, and to break every yoke" (Isaiah 58:6)

“Let us love, not in word or speech, but in truth and action” (1 John 3:18).
